The Central City Republican leads off in its last editorial denouncing the "bad man" who "totes a gun" and shoots to kill. Such characters should be suppressed in every community at whatever cost.

COL. WILLIAM J. BRYAN has at last reached the expected point where he couldn't stand the pressure and has wired notice of his resignation to the War Department. He puts behind him all hope of military glory and looks forward to the resumption of his windy and theatrical career as a campaign leader.

The second session of the National Pure Food Congress has been called to meet in Washington, D. C., for the purpose of making renewed efforts to have a pure food bill passed through Congress. Almost everything is adulterated these days and it takes a discriminating buyer to get a pure article. Let us have pure food by legislation, if it can be procured no other way.

The United States is on record recently for doing great things in a big and generous way more even than ever before. The government has just been magnanimous to a fallen foe and allowed that foe a money consideration for certain values in the Philippine Islands. Now it is reported that the troublesome seal-fishery question is to be put at rest by the purchase by the United States of the British Columbia sealing fleet.

The Goebel Law.
The Louisville Evening Post, the Lexington Herald and other representative and leading Democratic journals in Kentucky are denouncing most bitterly the Goebel law, constitutional or not. The first named paper predicts that the party whose convention endorses the villainous law will be defeated whoever the candidates may be and all the easier if that candidate be Goebel. Well let it be Goebel. We have Republicans in any quantity who could fill the gubernatorial chair with high honor and who are ready to go to that sort of glory. And some of them live in the Penyrile. The issue is an undefined ballot against Goebelism. Let all good citizens unite in a fight to the death against the outrageous law.

The Decision.
We believe in sustaining and upholding the honest decisions of our courts, and our court of Appeals says the Goebel law is constitutional. But our Court of Appeals says this by a strict party vote. And our Court of Appeals does not say it is a good law. The opinions and expressions of leading, honest, intelligent Kentuckians of all parties greatly preponderate in strong disapproval and denunciation of the measure. There is no good but only evil in it from its very inception to the day when it will be so smitten by true Kentuckians as to be driven from a place in our statutes.

THE BEE said some time ago that self-respecting young Democrats with any hope for the future from a party standpoint would do well to avoid any alliance with Goebelism. That view has been sustained by the action of that class to which we referred and stands good today.
Kentuckians will not abide such a law. They may not attack the Court of Appeals. It may be, as that tribunal says—in its way—constitutional, but it is all bad and may be put away.

Advice About Seed Corn.
Fitting the conditions of the present corn crop in Kentucky our Commissioner of Agriculture, Lucas Moore, gives the following excellent advice as to selection of seed corn which, if followed, may save the farmer much loss:
"In view of the sappy condition of corn a little precaution in regard to seed corn for next year may prove of benefit. A careful selection should be made at once of a sufficient amount of ears which should be placed where they will become thoroughly dried out. Hard freezing while the sap remains will destroy the germ and render it worthless for seed purposes, but after it has become dried it will withstand any temperature which may occur in this latitude without injury."

Wheat and Live Stock.
The condition of the wheat crop in Kentucky is just now a little in doubt because of peculiar and severe weather conditions. The Commissioner of Agriculture reports the crop average for the State at 94, which is several points higher than at the corresponding date last year. The crop is divided into two distinct parts, the early and the later. And these parts are distinctly separated. The rainfall during October interrupted the sowing completely and the early wheat got a decided start of the later sowing. The question of injury by the recent weather is in doubt, but it is not expected that the crop can escape damage. When the freeze came the early crop was getting too rank to withstand severe weather and the late sowing was just coming up. The commissioner says all classes of live stock show an improvement over condition of December 1, 1897.

Jacob Zimbro has taken his shoulder from under the Henderson Fair, and unless some latter day Atlas assumes his place that institution will inevitably come to the ground. In his valdictory, Jacob states that he has been offered as a bleeding sacrifice upon the altar of his county long enough. Here's a chance for a local martyr.

Lindsey Freeman, a farmer living near Cadiz, was shot and fatally wounded by his nineteen-year-old son last week. Freeman was abusing his wife and the boy took up the quarrel. Weapons were seized and the boy got in the first shot, and has not yet been arrested. They are respectable people.

A fatal epidemic is prevailing in the vicinity of Knottsville, in Daviess county, among horses. Farmers are losing from one to five head. The afflicted animals lose their sight and die after two or three days awful agony. The feeding of rotten and worm eaten corn is believed to cause the disease.

The Anderson Building, one of the finest business blocks in Mayfield, was destroyed by fire Sunday morning. The fire originated in the third story and was beyond control when discovered. The building and contents aggregated $25,000, with an insurance of $15,000. The block will be rebuilt.

THE NAG MAN AT HOME.
After an Extensive Sojourn in the Land of his Boyhood.

Notwithstanding the "hoss" editor has not been contributing anything to THE BEE of late, nobody need flatter themselves that he has shuffled off his mortal coil for, he still lives, and his largely increased avoirdupois indicates that he will write baby poetry for some time yet to come.

About five weeks since the doctors advised the man of nags to take a change of scenery, sandwiched with a good slice of recreation. Now, if there is anything on this earth that fascinates the "hoss" editor, it is rest, and when that rest is accompanied by a little "change," it is perfectly entrancing.

After complimenting the medical staff for their deep insight into his case, the "creetur" man packed his grip and bled away to that State which has furnished her full quota of great and distinguished men, such as Jackson, Polk, Johnson, Crockett, Brownlow, Murrell and the "hoss" editor. He will pass silently by the rapturous welcome which he received on every hand, and state that he passed four weeks in pleasure and recreation. His chief recreation was hunting and fishing. The fishing was conducted by lowering a baited net into the turbid waters of the Cumberland, and waiting impatiently for the finny tribe to enter the net. As none entered, he found pretty soon that he was engaged in a business which yielded no net profits, so he gave up fishing and adopted hunting. Now there are different ways of hunting. Sometimes a party of hunters, accompanied by dogs, will scour the forest in quest of game. Sometimes a solitary hunter will scour the forest and silently steal upon his game. This latter mode is called "still hunting" and the man of nags prefers still hunting to any other kind.

Learning that there was a still (we mean game) in a dark ravine about a mile and a little over away the "hoss" editor fortified himself with a plural shotgun, a game bag and one dozen empty shells and set out on a still hunt. By exercising great caution he was in the doorway (we mean gunshot) before his presence was detected. He quickly brought down his gun and returned well satisfied with his success. The man of nags indignantly denies the malicious charge that he shot birds contrary to state law. He wants everybody to understand that the game he carried back was not birds by a jugful (or nearly full). The game he brought in tastes stronger than quail and must be partaken of with judgment and discretion or a sense of "fullness" and "dizziness" is sure to follow. Although the creature man does not consider himself a Nimrod of the first magnitude, he points with pride to the fact that under favorable circumstances he has never returned empty-handed from a still hunt.

A four-week's sojourn among his old friends so recuperated him that on the 10th instant he returned to that latter day Eden, the "Green River Country," and found the fatted calf still living and the earth turning on its axis subject to the action of the democratic party.

The Legion at Home.
From the Louisville Evening Post.
The Legion is home, home. To the soldier's ear the sweetest words on the English tongue. It might be—as it has been—to sentinel chimneys and smouldering ashes, but it is home still. No mortal hand can shut the windows of the sky that bends above it. If it be a country home every hill top is an altar. There is a story in every breeze, a picture in every wave of fish pond and swimming pool. If in town or city, the familiar streets still echo with memories that are sacred.

Home, sweet home! There are yet many thousands of Grant's and Lee's survivors who will recall a pathetic incident of the war between the States. On either side of the Rappahannock one beautiful evening in June lay the opposing armies, each nearly 100,000 strong. A regimental band from the Northern side struck up "Hail Columbia." One after another other bands joined in until the whole Union army was on its feet. As the strains died away deafening shouts of applause reverberated among the surrounding hills. Then all was silence. After a brief interval, just as if a regular program had been arranged, a number of bands on the Southern side began with "Dixie," the soldiers of General Lee joining in the song, followed at its close by loud hurrahs. Then from the Northern bands the "Star Spangled Banner" rang loud and clear; the South responding with the "Bonnie Blue Flag." As a Virginian remarked, each side seemed to be "shelling the other side with its national airs."

There was no shifting of scenery in the wooded wings and aisles in this great theater of war. But after an interval of fifteen or twenty minutes a Northern regiment started "Home, Sweet Home." Slowly the tender melody went down the line, and, as if by preconcert, the Southern army across the river took up the hymn until a hundred thousand soldiers had joined in the splendid choir.

Voice after voice took up the strain, and as the song grew louder, something upon the soldier's cheek washed off the stains of powder. The world perhaps never before nor since has witnessed such an orchestra. Northern and Southern soldiers who had been enemies a few minutes ago united as one in the magnificent invocation. If aught of earth can touch a chord in things divine the blue heavens must have bent in sympathy with the music—for earth seldom before, if ever, came so near reproducing the earliest dawn of Creation, when the morning stars sang together and all the sons of God shouted for joy.

The Thermometer Dived.
On Monday evening, the weather began turning colder, and the mercury went persistently downward until Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock, it registered eight degrees below zero, which is the coldest weather for years. In neither 1896-97 did it reach zero. In January, 1895, it registered 3 below. We feel satisfied that it will strain the plastic memory of the oldest inhabitant to recall the time when the thermometer recorded 8 below zero before the ideas of December. Overcoats and wraps, in fact anything that would either develop or maintain heat was at a premium and the most liberal minded held "close communion" with the stove or grate, whilst the weather liar chattered unbelievably and unheeded.

"PARVUS MAGISTER."

SALAMAGUNDI.

The Hon. Geo. W. Peck, a man who has acquired considerable fame as Governor of Wisconsin and as author of "Peck's Bad Boy," and a man who, we feel, is the bad boy's friend, said, in a lecture which he delivered at Madisonville a few weeks ago, that we should be patient with the bad boy; that the parent should pat the boy on the back and have him feel that his parent is his best friend; that his parent loves him, is interested in his welfare and would do anything to make him happier and better. He said many other good things and many other facetious things but when he said the things herein spoken of we thought of how it would be could a great many parents hear these things.

We know boys who always approach their fathers with hesitancy and even with awe sometimes. Such fathers generally have the respect of their boys and almost always get prompt obedience when the boy is told directly to do a thing. But we feel that such a father fails to enjoy many a pleasure that he would enjoy if he would only make more of a companion of his boy; we feel that such a father misses many an opportunity to wield a good and refining influence over his boy when he acts thus; we feel that if the boy considered his father more companionable he would go to him in times of trouble whereby as it is, sometimes, he goes to others who treat him not so tenderly and encouragingly as a father would treat him. And, besides, the father feels hurt that his boy goes to others and thus the breach between father and son becomes greater and greater whereby it might have been so different—so different.

Furthermore, we feel that such a father, when Time has made his impress on him in a head sprinkled with grey, a form bowed, emaciated and wasted by disease, fails to receive many a cheering word, many a kind little act that he would have received had not the boy still that feeling of timidity and awe when in his presence.
Encourage that bad boy of yours. Make him feel that you are his friend. Get him to tell you his little troubles and find something besides a scowl and a discouraging word for him. He is to be the business man of the future—the minister, the lawyer, the doctor, the farmer, the statesman, the one on whom the destinies of this proud nation—"the land of the free and the home of the brave"—depends. A boy with such responsibilities and with such bright prospects is worthy a tender, careful and sensible consideration.

Thursday and Friday, Nov. 24 and 25 were quarterly examination days in the Earlinton Public School. The results of said examination were better than were expected and the persistent and assiduous work of most of the pupils was such that no one who is a teacher or who is interested in boys and girls could view it without new inspiration and a determination to try to do more and better work in the future. But from the foregoing remarks we would not have you infer that all did good work. Some did very fine work; some did very poor work. But all present displayed an assiduity and persistency that were admirable.

Some of the pupils were handicapped in that they had not had enough books in the past. The parents, we think, were able to get the books and, we suspect they got other things less valuable, but which cost more, but some of the books were seen not.

We wonder as we write how many parents, when they saw their children's grades, were pleased and how many displeased; we wonder how many really thought of the grades which were supposed to be a result of the child's last three month's work; we wonder how many children were encouraged by the parents if they received bad instead of good grades or how many uncomplimentary things were said of the teachers because the boy or girl got poor grades.

The following is what was given by a certain pupil as two reasons why we sometimes have earthquakes. We call no names and if the pupil who wrote it objects we hereby apologize. The temptation to give it is too great to be resisted. He wrote: "An earthquake is a great shaking of the earth, caused by the moon and icebergs falling into the ocean." Some punctuation might have changed the meaning a little, but perhaps would not have made the reasons better.

We heard a teacher, not long ago, lamenting the fact that swearing is so prevalent among boys—the small boys as well as the large boys. That the teacher was correct in what he said is only too true and all who have observed closely and listened attentively must admit that such is so. Reader, why this prevalence of swearing among boys? In the near future we intend to tell why we think it is so.

LITTLE SWEETHEART.

As Perkins has neglected writing so long from our flourishing community, I thought I would pen you the following notes, telling the many readers of the Bee the best news in our community. As it has not been represented in so long I suppose the readers thought it went like free silver—straight up—but it didn't, we are still in the ring.

Gathering corn is the order of the day with our farmers and they report good crops of both corn and tobacco.

Tim Carroll made a business trip to Hopkinsville Thursday.

The party given at George Reid's Friday night was quite a success, and well attended.

Mr. J. Y. Yarbrough's school will close in a few days, and we are very sorry as he is a splendid teacher and pleased everyone.

A Fleshly Consumptive

Did you ever see one? Did you ever hear of one? Most certainly not. Consumptive is a disease that invariably causes loss of flesh.

If you are light in weight, even if your cough is only a slight one, you should certainly take Scott's Emulsion of cod liver oil with hypophosphates. No remedy is such a perfect preventive to consumption. Just the moment your throat begins to weaken and you find you are losing flesh, you should begin to take it. And no other remedy has cured so many cases of consumption. Unless you are far advanced with this disease, Scott's Emulsion will hold every inducement to you for a perfect cure.

Save Your Money.
One box of Tuff's Pills will save many dollars in doctors' bills. They will surely cure all diseases of the stomach, liver or bowels. No Reckless Assertion. For sick headache, dyspepsia, malaria, constipation and biliousness, a million people endorse TUFF'S LIVER PILLS.

In the district. There will be an entertainment on the night of the last day.

Oscar Dunning, a young man age 20 years, committed suicide one day last week from an unknown cause. He had been in bad health for some time.

May THE BEE continue to buzz is the wish of OLD ROUGH.

LOCOMOTIVE BLASTS.

The breaking down of the engine on the Providence train caused about two hours delay to that train on Monday.

We are told that Agent Tefft, of Nortonville, has been selected as the joint agent for both companies at that place, which is indeed a good selection. He is always ready for business, and is so qualified as to give both companies entire satisfaction.

Engineer Fitzgerald was like a young colt turned loose on a pasture, last Monday, while in charge of the Providence train, seeming never to tire. Starting from Earlinton only a few minutes ahead of 92, he kept his position until he reached Evansville.

Superintendent Sullivan, with relatives and friends, attended the musical concert given by the Boston Ladies' Military Band last Monday evening.

It is said that a large amount of coal is being stolen from coal cars at Hopkinsville, while trains take siding there.

The boys are so roused with work that occasionally you hear one say he must rest; but as a general thing the boys can be found ready to keep things moving.

Agent Woodbridge, of Springfield, Tenn., called Dr. Chatten there last week to attend a sick relative, but the summons came too late, as death had relieved the sufferer before he reached there.

It is thought the new depot at Nortonville will be ready for occupancy the last of this week.

The train dispatchers were caused much trouble by the heavy snow storm breaking down the wires, last week.

The question now being asked is, Who will be the agent at Henderson?

The first death for some time by being run over by a train was the killing of Brakeman Scoley, at Madisonville, last week. Few such accidents now happen on this division, and as air brakes and safety couplings come more in use, accidents decrease.

By the breaking of a value chain at the Hopkinsville tank, Monday night, a fireman was thrown from his engine and slightly hurt.

S. W. Mothershead, our popular yard clerk, is still fighting against the chills, which thus far seem to claim him as a victim, but his friends hope that the contents of that bottle he got the other day will knock them out.

Yard Switchman Clay Woodbridge has resumed work in the Earlinton yard, after an absence of several months on account of illness.

The Burlington is making improvements at Quincy, Ill., costing about $1,000,000.

The L. & N. railroad has appropriated $248,441 for the improvement of the road bed of the main stem of the company between Louisville and Bowling Green.

The grades will be reduced, bridges elevated or reduced, and this part of the line made as level as a billiard table. Among other improvements now under way are the steel bridge of the most approved design and modern type recently completed over Cumberland river at Nashville, costing $145,533; and a large and handsome passenger station which is being constructed at Nashville.

The Short-line has been rebalanced, retired and railed. The same kind of improvements are to be made on the road from Nashville to St. Louis, from Bowling Green to Memphis and from Memphis to New Orleans.

DOWN IN THE MINES.

A seam of coal has been found near Electric Springs Park, Warrensburg, Mo. The seam is four feet thick and 50 men have been put to work to develop the property.

A seam of coal nearly six feet thick has been found at Canton, Ohio. Several companies have leased land and it is expected that extensive collieries will be in operation early next year.

The coal mine bought by the Southern Pacific Co., at Carbonado, Pierce County, Wash., is now producing 35,000 tons per month. A new shaft is being sunk diagonally to a seam 5½ feet thick.

It is probable that the returns for 1898 will show an increased production from all the mines, as much as 20 per cent., perhaps, in several cases.

Lancaster, Pa., is about to spend $1,000 to purchase coal for the poor; the money is derived from an invested fund started by former President James Buchanan, who lived near that city.

The Southern R. R. Co., is handling on an average 300 cars of coal per day from the Jellico and Coal Creek districts of Tennessee.

The report was out from Henderson last week that gold had been discovered not far from Marion, Ky., and this may indicate to the free-silverite that the goldbugs intend holding that county.

It is the general feeling among the miners that if the present good run of work continues that many of them will postpone taking their holidays until next summer.

The miner who attempts to idle away his time with plenty of work staving him in the face will get little comfort from our miners when he complains of dull times.

Weigher Fegan says the best days work so far at No. 11, besides the coal delivered in town and that furnished the railroad company, is 150,000 bushels.

The Oakhill Coal Co., although they have but a small force of men at work, load and ship on an average of six cars per day.

Orders for coal are coming in a rush to the Hecla Coal Co., but so far they have not been able to put in a five quarter day on account of scarcity of coal cars. They are supplying a good portion of the Cumberland river trade this year.

Not often do the miners here complain of too much work, and it is an evident fact that the present rush is giving some of them all they can stand up to, yet like faithful men they hang on.

Some of the miners at Hecla made over $100 last month in the mine there and we look for some record breakers if the good work continues.

Supt. Harris, of the South Diamond mine, says they are getting all the work they can possibly do and his men seem to display great interest in doing all they can to keep up with the orders.

Even warm weather for three weeks we are told would not enable the St. Bernard Coal Co. to catch up with orders, so fast are they piling up on them.

While large daily shipments are being made by all the coal companies, yet the scarcity of coal cars has thrown them back considerably.

A correct record of Secretary Atkinson's conversation as carried on over the telephone when rush orders for coal keep coming in would make interesting reading, and we reiterate the charge that George ever prevaricates unless talking of pumpkins or some trivial matter.

The miner who skates and enjoys it now finds time to do so only at night or on Sunday.

Tanner says he will live to be vindicated, and an exchange adds that it will have to be in this world if ever.

A labor organizer up in the Jellico coal mining region says he meets with strong opposition in some quarters, and why should he not, when for years past but little has been done there on account of the interference of labor leaders and followers.

Co-operation is being advocated by many labor leaders, and it is all right if they will adopt the right plan of co-operation, and that is, every miner take an interest in the welfare of his employees or company he works for—do all in his power to make a success of the business, both for employers and employees.

Mr. J. L. Starks, an L. & N. fireman, fell from his engine, near Hopkinsville Tuesday morning and was badly cut about the face and head. He was brought to this place and Dr. N. G. Mothershead dressed his wounds. He left on the early train for his home in Nashville.

The stables of Samuel Barnard and Eli Brackett, near White Plains, were destroyed by fire last Saturday night. Their entire supply of hay and corn for the winter was consumed. Loss, $300, with no insurance so far as we can learn. Everything indicates the work of an incendiary.

John Spangler, who for many years was one of the best and most prominent coal miners at St. Charles, was in his old stamping grounds last week. His home is now in Terre Haute, Ind. He is traveling salesman for the Huff Drilling Attachment, described as "the mechanics' friend" and "a great labor and time saver," and is doing an excellent business. He sold a large number of the drills in this city.

Electricity Galore.

Last week the office experienced unusual trouble from electricity. The paper was so highly electrified that it required the greatest effort to separate the sheets which adhered to each other with the tenacity of an afflicted feline to a heated stove, or a crossroads postmaster to his office, and would give out shocks that would affect the arms to the shoulder. Of course everyone had a solution for the phenomena, but the "hoss" editor is fully satisfied that he is the only one who can satisfactorily explain the matter from a scientific standpoint. He contends that it is because the paper is so full of "current" events and wants to bet money on his solution. He would also call the attention of those who desire to "raise thunder" with us that this office owns enough native electricity to run a corner on the thunder business, and such parties will do well to take due heed and "walk Spanish" around us.

Cataract Cannot be Cured

With local applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Cataract is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Cataract Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this county for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of these wonderful results in curing Cataract. ## Big Turtles.

Frank McGary and Wilson Borders are cited to the fact that their recent catch was not the only turtle in the creek. He was rusty and big and old but there is one—or was—that beat it. And it has just died in the London Zoo. It was about seven feet long, and is said to have been 150 years old. It was of special interest to Americans, because one of the heroes of our old navy, Captain (afterward Admiral) Porter, presented it in 1814 to the chief of Rotumah Island, where it remained until 1870 when it was shipped to Sydney, N. S. W. It was brought to the London Zoo in February last and its death is thought to be due to the hard voyage and the hard London climate. Think of a climate in which a turtle could not live.

Good for the Children.

Mrs. Ella Hinson, of Hinton, Ala., writes us August 12th, 1898. "I advise all mothers to give their children Planter's Nubian Tea when they are puffy or fretful. I keep this medicine in the house and when the children are ailing I give them a dose and that is the last of it."

Messrs. W. T. Mills and Falcon Baker, of Madisonville, spent Sunday evening with friends here.

He Whistled.

A speaking tube has lately been put in the St. Bernard store from the bookkeeper's desk down stairs to Mayor Burr's office in the front second story, and Charlie McGary was placed at the downstairs terminal to test the excellence of the acoustic tunnel. Everybody knows that by blowing into the end of one of these tubes a shrill whistle is produced at the other end. This announces that some one wishes to communicate a message. A crowd gathered into the Mayor's office bent on fun. Frank Arnold requested Charlie to try the call whistle. Putting his mouth to the tube Charlie produced a blast in the Mayor's room which raised that worthy dignitary to the ceiling. Frank assured Charlie that they could hardly hear him and begged him to blow harder. Charlie caught a full breath and emptied a volume of air into the tube which would have blown the head from an oaken barrel and which produced a shriek in the upper office that fractured the plastering. Four men seized and forcibly held Mayor Burr, who, with fingers dug deeply into his ears was frantically endeavoring to leap out of the front window. Arnold called to Charlie that it was a little better, but still it could not be heard all over the office and exhorted him to blow just a little harder. Charlie shut his eyes, took a deep inspiration and putting his mouth to the tube he let off a shriek in the upper office which startled the citizens living three blocks away and which evolved such screams of laughter from the crowd above that the hilarious sounds reached Charlie's ears and it began to soak through the roots of his hair that he had been victimized. He at once vacated his post but has not heard the last of the cruel sell yet.

Best way to Invest 25 Cents.

In the Lead.

The continued cold weather shielded the surface of Loch Mary with a coat of ice four inches in thickness and the young and gay resorted thither Saturday and Sunday and flew hither and thither over the treacherous surface with the velocity of lubricated lightning, meantime cutting shins and didos which made the head of the spectator reel to contemplate. For extraordinary high handed capers Henry Bourland and Howard White have succeeded in removing the mutilated linen from the shrubbery and although they frequently stand on their heads and kick viciously at the man in the moon they assert that they do so on purpose just to exhibit their proficiency.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c., guaranteed at St. Bernard drugstore.

The Widow Ashlock, who has lived for years on a little place near the Hecla coal mine, died Wednesday of last week and was buried by friends on Friday afternoon. She was ninety-four years old and the mother of some twelve or fourteen children, only one of whom, a daughter, survives her. The remains were buried in the Earlington cemetery. At the time the officers were trying to find Gus Hite, the highway robber, Mrs. Ashlock's place was under surveillance because it was an admirable location for the refugee to secrete himself and was in the neighborhood he was likely to frequent. The little old house was situated in a small field which was grown up with weeds so high as almost to obscure it and Hite could have taken possession and shot down a posse before they could have reached him. But it was afterwards learned from the old lady herself that Hite was never at her place but once while he was eluding the officers and then only for a short time.

Our "Hoss" Editor Returns.

Col. W. A. Toombs, our "hoss" editor, returned Sunday morning from a visit of about four weeks' duration, in and around the immediate vicinity of Gallatin, Tenn., his old home. The Colonel had been feeling badly for some time before making this visit back to his native heath, where sweet mash and honey flow, and we are glad to say that he returned feeling much better and improved in health. After rusticating in such a garden spot. He promised when leaving that he would drop a line or two back to the paper while gone, but failed to do so, owing to the fact, he says, of receiving no paper while away; but this week the readers will no doubt be electrified by his chronicling of local and current events.

Wonderful Discovery.

LUNSFORD, Ala., April 15, 1898. New Spencer Medicine Co. Dear Sirs—I have been troubled with liver and stomach complaint. I had no appetite and my general health was very bad. I took medicine from four different doctors and they failed to do me any good. I got no relief until I began to use your valuable Nubian Tea. I used about two dollars worth of it, and it did me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have gained thirty-five pounds in weight and my health is very good. I can sleep soundly and my appetite is excellent. I can recommend Planter's Nubian Tea to the world as being a God-send to any community. Any one who doubts this statement can write OSCAR BAKER. Sold by St. Bernard Drug Store.

Christmas Draws Near.

As the holidays approach the interest and enthusiasm of the little folks verge near the fever point. In almost every household long and very suggestive letters are daily written in good old Sagta Claus setting forth in the touching and unaffected childish manner the desires of young and tender hearts. Parents would do well to read those childish letters and remember that they too were once young and desired the same things their children are begging Santa Claus to bring them. With a very little effort of memory we can recall the pleasure of receiving those childish treasures or the intense, bitter sorrow of disappointment in our childhood anticipations. As far as possible shed sunlight over lives whose only pleasures may be those of childhood.

Did you ever See a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snowstorm.

No need of this snowstorm. As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this; it prevents their formation. It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten days out of every ten cases. And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair. We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking. If you do not obtain all the benefits you desire from the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily remedied. DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

AMONG THE EXCHANGES.

A serious accident befell Mr. Finley Lee in the Berry's Lick neighborhood one day last week. While kindling a fire he became unconscious and fell almost in the fire, where he lay some time before his wife discovered him. One cheek and one hand was badly burned.—Green River Republican.

The Oak View school house burned on Friday night last with its contents. The fire is said to have originated from a defective flue. The loss is estimated at $350 for the furniture and building. When the huckster came to Owensboro last Friday with 1,400 rabbits it so far broke the rabbit delivery record here that it was thought it would never be eclipsed, but the person who comes to Owensboro with only 1,400 rabbits will now be considered as doing a very small rabbit business, as a huckster was here Monday with 3,000. He had bought them up through the country at two and one-half and three cents each. He sold them here at five cents each, realizing $150 for the load.—Owensboro Messenger.

Farmers report early sown wheat looking well. Early wheat makes the best yield taking one year with another. A large per cent of the crop is late and much of it is liable to be injured by hard freezes.—Elkton Progress.
